Sugar or salt: the use of 5% dextrose in the adult, non-diabetic haemodialysis population

Glenda Rayment, Susana San Miguel & Josephine Chow ........................................... 58

Dry weight from the haemodialysis patient perspective

Magnus Lindberg, Helena Bäckström-Andersson, Rosmarie Lindström & Maria Lindberg ................................................................. 68

Ethical considerations for nurses undertaking research with a potentially vulnerable population with chronic kidney disease

Sandra Campbell-Crofts, John Field & Deirdre Fetherstonhaugh ....................... 74

The renal memorial service: an important component of renal supportive care

Shelley Tranter, Anastasia Anastasiou, Hassan Bazzi, Hannah Burgess & Elizabeth Josland ............................................................................ 80

The relationships between clinical, socio-demographic and self-management: factors and complications in Thai peritoneal dialysis patients

Rotsukon Varitsakul, Siriorn Sindhu, Aurawamon Sriyuktasuth, Chukiat Viwatwongkasem & Cheryl R Dennison Himmelfarb ......................... 85

Haemodialysis adequacy: looking for the holy grail

Yvonne White ........................................................................................................... 94